Biographical Note:
The Edward H. Butler Family played a prominent role in the development of the Niagara Frontier for nearly 100 years (1880 - 1976). Edward H. Butler, Senior published the first edition the Buffalo Evening News on October 11, 1880. Upon his death in 1914, his son, Edward, assumed the role of editor and publisher of the paper. At his death in 1956, his widow, Kate Robinson Butler ran the paper. Shortly after her death in 1975, the paper was sold to Blue Chips Stamps.

Buffalo State College has enjoyed a long relationship with the Butler family. Three generations of members of the Butler Family served as Presidents of the College Council. E. H. Butler Library was named after Edward H. Butler, Senior.

Kate Butler (Wallis Wickham), daughter of Edward H. Butler, Junior donated her mother's personal correspondence to the library in 1977. In 1976, she donated all correspondence of her grandfather and father covering the period 1880-1956. In 1985, the Buffalo News donated all business correspondence of the Butler Senior and Junior connected to the Buffalo Evening News. In 1987, The Buffalo News donated the "Kirchhofer Papers". Kirchhofer, editor of the News, was in the process of writing a history of the paper when he died suddenly. His research materials and the papers he had taken from the Butler family files (1880-1976) were kept together as a collection.

Scope and Contents: Collection includes personal correspondence; photographs; business records; financial statements; business files and personnel for the Buffalo Evening News; editorials; news clippings, and some miscellaneous ephemera.

Arrangement:
The collection is arranged into four sections. Please see specific sections of the inventory for more in-depth information on subgroups and individual foldering.

The E. H. Butler Family Correspondence
1880-1976

History of the Collection

The E. H. Butler family played a prominent role in the development of the Niagara Frontier for nearly one hundred years – 1880-1976. E. H. Butler, Senior founded the BEN (first edition, October 11, 1880) and upon his death in 1914, his son, Edward, assumed the responsibility of the newspaper as editor and publisher. Later, when the paper was incorporated, he became president. At his death in 1956, his widow, Kate Robinson Butler became the president of this important paper in Buffalo. Shortly after her death in 1975, the paper was sold to Blue Chips Stamps.

From its earlier years, SUCB has been indebted to the Butler family as three generations were represented as presidents of the College Council, resulting in the naming of the college library after E. H. Butler, Senior. When the college archives center was established in 1975, all Butler correspondence in connection with the College Council became an important collection.

In 1977, Kate Butler Wallis donated her mother’s personal correspondence to the library – dates included 1910-1975 and the collection consisted of thirteen storage boxes.

After the sale of the BEN, Mrs. Wallis again donated all correspondence with the financial and estate matters of the two Butler men: 1880-1956.

From the Buffalo News, in 1985 were received all business correspondence connected with the BEN as well as personal family papers. There were ten storage boxes in this particular shipment.

In 1987 twelve boxes of correspondence identified as “A. Kirchhofer Papers” arrived from the Buffalo News. Mr. Kirchhofer had hoped to write a definitive history of the paper and had culled what he considered to be the most important materials from both Butler, Senior and Butler, Junior collections (before they were sent to Butler Library). Rather than attempt to replace the materials in each collection, it was decided to leave it as a separate segment in the total collection.

At this point, it was assumed that all the correspondence connected with the Butler family and the BEN had been received and serious attention was given the challenge of processing this huge collection. Since it was so large and of extreme importance, it was decided to treat it as a Special Collection rather than a collection in the archives.

How was it to be arranged? Should it be left exactly as it was when received? Even after a casual study of the materials, it was quite evident that all files had to be replaced and much repair needed to be done. Before processing began, the collection was used by a well known historian, and as the files were searched, it became quite obvious that some adaptation must take place to make the subject matter more accessible. It was noted that for each year, there was a new index. This meant that several boxes needed to searched for information on any one person or subject, depending on number of years considered.

Before making a final decision, the archivist consulted several local historians and all agreed that for best service, the format of the collection should be changed when necessary. Too, the total collection was not received at the same time but in bits and pieces. This added to the problem.

Arrangement

The collection was divided into the following sections:

- E. H. Butler, Senior - 1880-1914
- E. H. Butler, Junior - 1900-1924
  1925-1940
  1941-1946
  1947-1956
- Kate R. Butler - 1880-1954
  1955-1976

Since the Butlers owned the paper as well as managed it, personal papers were interfiled with business matters. It was decided to separate the materials into two categories: personal and business.
In many cases, the several secretaries were not consistent in the matter of "subject" files. It was decided to change some for the sake of reference.

A decision was also made to place the correspondence of numerous editors of out of state papers under the name of the paper itself.

Some correspondence was directed to various individuals connected with one company. It seemed best to place all the correspondence under the company name.

It must be admitted that to be absolutely correct, the collection should have been processed as received. It certainly would have been easier for the processor and would have taken less time, but it was decided to change the format for the sake of future researchers.

The processing was completed (even to the inventories) the last week of August 1991. The total collection of 250 linear feet is stored in a special room adjacent to the attractively appointed room which was officially dedicated in July in honor of the Butler family.

1880-1976

History of the Collection

The E. H. Butler family played a prominent role in the development of the Niagara Frontier for nearly one hundred years – 1880-1976. E. H. Butler, Senior founded the BEN (first edition, October 11, 1880), and upon his death in 1914, his son, Edward, assumed the responsibility of the newspaper as editor and publisher. Later, when the paper was incorporated, he became president. At his death in 1956, his widow, Kate Robinson Butler became the president of this important paper in Buffalo. Shortly after her death in 1975, the paper was sold to Blue Chips Stamps.

From its earlier years, SUCB has been indebted to the Butler family as three generations were represented as presidents of the College Council, resulting in the naming of the college library after E. H. Butler, Senior. When the college archives center was established in 1975, all Butler correspondence in connection with the College Council became an important collection.

In 1977, Kate Butler Wallis donated her mother’s personal correspondence to the library – dates included 1910-1975 and the collection consisted of thirteen storage boxes.

After the sale of the BEN, Mrs. Wallis again donated all correspondence with the financial and estate matters of the two Butler men: 1880-1956.

From the Buffalo News, in 1985 were received all business correspondence connected with the BEN as well as personal family papers. There were ten storage boxes in this particular shipment.

In 1987 twelve boxes of correspondence identified as “A. Kirchhofer Papers” arrived from the Buffalo News. Mr. Kirchhofer had hoped to write a definitive history of the paper and had culled what he considered to be the most important materials from both Butler, Senior and Butler, Junior collections (before they were sent to Butler Library). Rather than attempt to replace the materials in each collection, it was decided to leave it as a separate segment in the total collection.

At this point, it was assumed that all the correspondence connected with the Butler family and the BEN had been received and serious attention was given the challenge of processing this huge collection. Since it was so large and of extreme importance, it was decided to treat it as a Special Collection rather than a collection in the archives.

How was it to be arranged? Should it be left exactly as it was when received? Even after a casual study of the materials, it was quite evident that all files had to be replaced and much repair needed to be done. Before processing began, the collection was used by a well known historian, and as the files were searched, it became quite obvious that some adaptation must take place to make the subject matter more accessible. It was noted that for each year, there was a new index. This meant that several boxes needed to be searched for information on any one person or subject, depending on number of years considered.

Before making a final decision, the archivist consulted several local historians and all agreed that for best service, the format of the collection should be changed when necessary. Too, the total collection was not received at the same time but in bits and pieces. This added to the problem.

Arrangement

The collection was divided into the following sections:

- E. H. Butler, Senior – 1880-1914
- E. H. Butler, Junior – 1900-1924
  1925-1940
  1941-1946
  1947-1956
- Kate R. Butler – 1880-1954
  1955-1976
Since the Butlers owned the paper as well as managed it, personal papers were interfiled with business matters. It was decided to separate the materials into two categories: personal and business.

In many cases, the several secretaries were not consistent in the matter of "subject" files. It was decided to change some for the sake of reference.

A decision was also made to place the correspondence of numerous editors of out of state papers under the name of the paper itself.

Some correspondence was directed to various individuals connected with one company. It seemed best to place all the correspondence under the company name.

It must be admitted that to be absolutely correct, the collection should have been processed as received. It certainly would have been easier for the processor and would have taken less time, but it was decided to change the format for the sake of future researchers.

The processing was completed (even to the inventories) the last week of August 1991. The total collection of 250 linear feet is stored in a special room adjacent to the attractively appointed room which was officially dedicated in July in honor of the Butler family.

History of the Collection

The E. H. Butler family played a prominent role in the development of the Niagara Frontier for nearly one hundred years - 1880-1976. E. H. Butler, Senior founded the BEN (first edition, October 11, 1880), and upon his death in 1914, his son, Edward, assumed the responsibility of the newspaper as editor and publisher. Later, when the paper was incorporated, he became president. At his death in 1956, his widow, Kate Robinson Butler became the president of this important paper in Buffalo. Shortly after her death in 1975, the paper was sold to Blue Chips Stamps.

From its earlier years, SUCB has been indebted to the Butler family as three generations were represented as presidents of the College Council, resulting in the naming of the college library after E. H. Butler, Senior. When the college archives center was established in 1975, all Butler correspondence in connection with the College Council became an important collection.

In 1977, Kate Butler Wallis donated her mother's personal correspondence to the library - dates included 1910-1975 and the collection consisted of thirteen storage boxes.

After the sale of the BEN, Mrs. Wallis again donated all correspondence with the financial and estate matters of the two Butler men: 1880-1956.

From the Buffalo News, in 1985 were received all business correspondence connected with the BEN as well as personal family papers. There were ten storage boxes in this particular shipment.

In 1987 twelve boxes of correspondence identified as "A. Kirchhofer Papers" arrived from the Buffalo News. Mr. Kirchhofer had hoped to write a definitive history of the paper and had culled what he considered to be the most important materials from both Butler, Senior and Butler, Junior collections (before they were sent to Butler Library). Rather than attempt to replace the materials in each collection, it was decided to leave it as a separate segment in the total collection.

At this point, it was assumed that all the correspondence connected with the Butler family and the BEN had been received and serious attention was given the challenge of processing this huge collection. Since it was so large and of extreme importance, it was decided to treat it as a Special Collection rather than a collection in the archives.

How was it to be arranged? Should it be left exactly as it was when received? Even after a casual study of the materials, it was quite evident that all files had to be replaced and much repair needed to be done. Before processing began, the collection was used by a well known historian, and as the files were searched, it became quite obvious that some adaptation must take place to make the subject matter more accessible. It was noted that for each year, there was a new index. This meant that several boxes needed to be searched for information on any one person or subject, depending on number of years considered.

Before making a final decision, the archivist consulted several local historians and all agreed that for best service, the format of the collection should be changed when necessary. Too, the total collection was not received at the same time but in bits and pieces. This added to the problem.

Arrangement

The collection was divided into the following sections:

- E. H. Butler, Senior - 1880-1914
- E. H. Butler, Junior - 1900-1924
  1925-1940
  1941-1946
  1947-1956
- Kate R. Butler - 1880-1954
  1955-1976
Since the Butlers owned the paper as well as managed it, personal papers were interfiled with business matters. It was decided to separate the materials into two categories: personal and business.

In many cases, the several secretaries were not consistent in the matter of “subject” files. It was decided to change some for the sake of reference.

A decision was also made to place the correspondence of numerous editors of out of state papers under the name of the paper itself.

Some correspondence was directed to various individuals connected with one company. It seemed best to place all the correspondence under the company name.

It must be admitted that to be absolutely correct, the collection should have been processed as received. It certainly would have been easier for the processor and would have taken less time, but it was decided to change the format for the sake of future researchers.

The processing was completed (even to the inventories) the last week of August 1991. The total collection of 250 linear feet is stored in a special room adjacent to the attractively appointed room which was officially dedicated in July in honor of the Butler family.
